number six

The sea turtle spends most of its time at sea.
The saw has very sharp teeth.
The table is set for a fancy dinner.
This sun and moon are made of clay.
Two bars of soap, and some bottles of shampoo, are on the rack.
Come early to get a seat for the game.
The gray sock does not match the white sock.
The big seal is climbing over the rocks.
The dog has been asked to sit.
The rhinoceros looks like it is sad.
We are having cabbage and potato soup for supper.
Will you help me plant the seeds in this sack?
This gray suit is perfect for business meetings.
The sign says that "sweetie corn" is for sale.
My son takes these drops when he is sick, to help his body heal.
Sometimes I put salt on my fries.
The sinks in this shop are filthy.
She is standing in the surf.
Water the seeds and in a short time they will sprout.
We can play tennis on court number six.

I like doughnuts with lots of chocolate icing.
If someone calls, please take a message.
The sidewalk cuts through the grassy field.
This dresser has fancy handles.
The water faucet has a green handle.
This fish lived millions of years ago, and is now a fossil.
You need a pencil and paper to practice writing letters.
We watched the baseball game from high in the stands.
This Irish castle has many windows.
Put the cassette into the cassette player to hear the songs.
I scream. You scream. We all scream for ice cream!
Some of the bricks are missing from this column.
We stopped at the gas station to buy gasoline.
The plastic dinosaur is outside of the store.
The thirty-first is the last day of December.
The small brown grasshopper can jump very far.
We drove for miles through the desolate desert.
The dog is very thirsty.
This thistle has tiny soft seeds.
Sometimes the sky turns orange at sunset.

The ice has formed delicate ice crystals.
She is wearing an ace of hearts costume.
The white house has red shutters and a striped awning.
The bus has pulled up to the bus stop.
It's your turn to roll the dice.
The clarinet case is open.
Do you like to play chess?
This goose has wide flat feet for swimming.
This desk is certainly a mess.
Would you like a piece of candy?
Soft green moss is growing on the rock.
Iris and statice flowers are in the vase.
The boot is hanging on the gate by its lace.
They put the street address on the building with brass numbers.
The blouse has pleats on the shoulder.
The garlic press can smash a clove of garlic.
The glass jar has stones and shells inside.
They cross the street at the corner.
The tiny frog is sitting in the grass.
Which shoes should I wear with the blue dress?
